Honorable George Christopher, Mayor
City and County of San Francisco
City Hall
San Francisco 2, California

Dear Mayor Christopher:

The 1961 Session of the State Legislature again demonstrates that the Legislature is moving more and more into fields that heretofore have been historically reserved to local government. As this philosophy of the State attempting to superimpose itself on other political subdivisions appears to be gaining support in legislative halls, it has become the responsibility of the representatives of the City and County of San Francisco to screen more bills than in the past.

An examination of the bills on which official policy was established reveals that most of the work done by your representatives consisted of supporting, opposing or amending legislation offered by legislators from parts of California other than San Francisco. This type of representation is time consuming. To affect a change in a bill requires meetings with the principal author as well as the sponsors of the legislation. If we are to continue to follow the patterns set in the 1961 Session, the Sacramento staff should be augmented so that committee hearings may be adequately covered and that necessary amendatory language be prepared for bills in which there is a City interest.

The City and County of San Francisco chose to express itself officially on 446 measures. Of the bills pending before the Senate, the City instructed us to support 79, oppose 52 and watch another 32 for a total of 163 bills.

Of the measures pending before the Assembly we were instructed to support 91 bills; oppose 130 and watch another 34 for a total of 255 bills. In addition we were given policy on 28 constitutional amendments and resolutions.

The following table is a final history of the bills in which San Francisco was interested.

The San Francisco Legislative Delegation was headed by Senator J Eugene McAteer. The delegation with the Senator as Chairman and consisting of Assemblymen Edward M. Gaffney, Charles W. Meyers, John A. O'Connell, Milton Marks, John A. Busterud and Phillip Burton, as they have in the past, offered all possible cooperation to the City's representatives.

Senator McAteer introduced and successfully prosecuted all of San Francisco's major measures. These included a bill which will complete work on the Southern Freeway, legislation continuing for two more years the State's $2,000,000 appropriation for the Palace of Fine Arts and another measure providing for $500,000 for a study for a second Marin crossing. In the light of the current controversy as to whether the Golden Gate Bridge can carry rapid transit trains, this last measure may loom with increasing importance in the years to come.

San Francisco also supported a measure offered by Senator John F. McCarthy of Marin County providing for a 60 per cent rapid transit bond vote and a second bill by the same author continuing for two additional years the use of San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge tolls for a rapid transit tube. A third bill introduced by Senator McCarthy creating a Golden Gate Authority was also supported by San Francisco but failed passage.

Defeated was legislation that would have increased the ad valorem tax for smog control and a bill which would have provided for a one-half cent per hundred dollars of assessed valuation for a creation of a regional planning commission.

In the final analysis, San Francisco enjoyed a successful legislative session despite the failure of the Golden Gate Authority bill to pass. Proponents of this legislation are determined to reintroduce this measure and meetings are scheduled during the interim at which strategy will be discussed.

All bills signed by Governor Brown will become effective on September 15, 1961.

Respectfully submitted,

Donald W. Cleary,
Legislative Representative

Bernard J. Ward
Deputy City Attorney
